Here's What Our Advertisers Are Saying:

"Heartland Credit Union does a lot of agriculture lending, but we couldn’t do that without our member/owners. The story—of people saving at the credit union and Heartland using that money to lend to family farms producing food those same people may be preparing in their kitchens—is a powerful one. Advertising with Edible Madison helps us tell that story well."

Robin Marohn
VP Marketing & Business Development at Heartland Credit Union

"Advertising with Edible Madison brought about one of the best results for exposure from Fromagination. The phone calls still occur from the first issue. People keep this magazine to read and reread because it truly fills a need to bring us closer to our local food, and to those who prepare and produce it. Edible Madison is the only local publication targeting an audience of those interested in understanding our local food culture as well as where their food comes from. The magazine has created a bridge between local farmers and engaged consumers. The magazine targets exactly those local residents we want to reach, which makes it highly effective for us as advertisers."

Ken Monteleone
Owner of Fromagination

"Advertising in Edible Madison has proven to be a wonderful way for us to reach out to new CSA members in the Madison area. Because our reverence of good food parallels that of the magazine so much, we know that the kind of people reading Edible Madison are the same sorts of folks we want to do business with. In this way, we feel good about supporting Edible Madison and all that they do to push the local food movement forward!"

Mike Lind
Farm Manager at Driftless Organics

And Here’s What Folks Are Saying Nationally:

"I just love reading [Edible Communities] publications cover to cover — they are some of the best things I've ever read."

Julia Child

"[Edible Communities publications] have become the unofficial literary journals of the farmer-writer movement."

The New York Times

"I call what you are doing 'The Edible Phenomenon' — you’ve accomplished something that most publishers have not done. The concept and the publications are fantastic."

Margo True
Former Managing Editor at Saveur, currently the Food Editor at Sunset

In 2011, Edible Madison, and the family of nearly 70 Edible Communities publications across North America, received the first-ever James Beard Publication of the Year Award, which recognizes a publication that demonstrates fresh directions, worthy ambitions, and a forward-looking approach to food journalism.
Things Our Readers Tell Us

"We never throw an issue away — we keep them all and use them over and over again."

"We pick up extra copies from local advertisers and mail them out to our family members who have moved away so they feel close to home still."

"I thought I knew everything about the local foods and farmers in my community, but I learn something new every time I read your publication."

"Every time I realize another issue is due, I start watching the mailbox for it. I can’t tell you how much I look forward to reading it, and you have never disappointed me. Every issue is great."
